ANNUAL PACKAGE CONCEPT

A Physical Exam is one of the most important parts of the visit. Your Veterinarian will assess all body systems (ears, eyes, mouth, coat, skin, heartbeat, etc.) to be sure your pet has no abnormalities or concerns.

Vaccines are a crucial part of the your pet's well being. Common diseases like Canine Parvo and Feline Leukemia which are often fatal can be prevented with a simple vaccine.

Ear Mite Exam will detect any present ear mites which could lead to a secondary ear infection.

Fecal Test will detect intestinal parasites which could be harmful to your pet. These parasites can be contagious to other pets you may have, and to your human loved ones as well !

Dhlppc vaccine protects dogs from six of their most common diseases. Distemper, hepatitis, leptospirosis, parvovirus, parvo and corona vaccine is a combo vaccine that is a "one shot covers all" administration. This vaccine is given annually.

Felv/fvrpc vaccine protects cats from Feline Leukemia and several feline upper respiratory diseases. This vaccine is given annually.

Rabies prevents your pet from contracting the rabies virus which can be fatal to both owner and pet. This vaccine is given annually.

Bordetella vaccine protects dogs from the common and highly contagious disease commonly known as "Kennel Cough". This vaccine is given semi-annually.

Purevax feline rabies vaccine prevents cats from contracting the rabies virus which can be fatal to both owner and pet. Purevax is a brand name given to this vaccine by its manufacturer which greatly reduces the risk of injection site tumors in cats.

Felv/FIV and Heartworm is a "combo test" which tests for Feline Leukemia and Feline AIDS, two very serious and contagious (to other cats only, not to humans) feline diseases, as well as heartworms.

A Heartworm Test checks to see if your cat or dog has the dreaded heartworm parasite. Your pet could have this parasite without showing symptoms. Once imbedded in your pet, a slow and fatal condition will develop in your dog. Treatment is available, but is very expensive and not always successful. Heartworm disease is contracted by mosquito bites, and both indoor and outdoor dogs are at risk. We highly recommend the fairly inexpensive Heartworm medication to go home with all of our canine patients if they don't already have some at home.

A dog's Nail Trim not only keeps your dog's nails from becoming obnoxious to you and your belongings, they also help to keep its nails healthy and strong.

In addition to these treatments, your doctor will recommend take home prevention drugs to help ward off parasites that your pet probably comes in contact with regularly. These may include flea and/or tick prevention, ear mite prevention, heartworm prevention, etc. We also highly recommend that your pet is Microchipped in case your pet ever gets lost. This is a simple and inexpensive procedure. Please ask one of our employees about the benefits and cost of the Microchip.

We designed the packages for two reasons: To encourage pet owners to do thorough and effective preventative medicine for their pet, AND to make it affordable to our clients as well.
